PCIQ Enterprise Learning: Content-On-Demand Services

About PCIQ Content-On-Demand

In our fast-paced, ever-changing world, blocking off large segments of time to train your entire staff is no longer a possibility. Companies today require specific training on demand.

Online training allows learners the freedom to move through content or curricula at a pace that is comfortable for them. This ensures maximum comprehension, real-time testing of concepts and greater accessibility to training. Plus, training managers will have the added benefit of powerful administration tools and tracking capabilities for managing successful online learning programs.

By partnering with Element K and NETg, industry leading content providers, PCIQ Enterprise Learning provides instructor-led training, self-study computer training and reference material online for individuals, IT professionals and business organizations in an environment unlike any other.
